MOROCCO

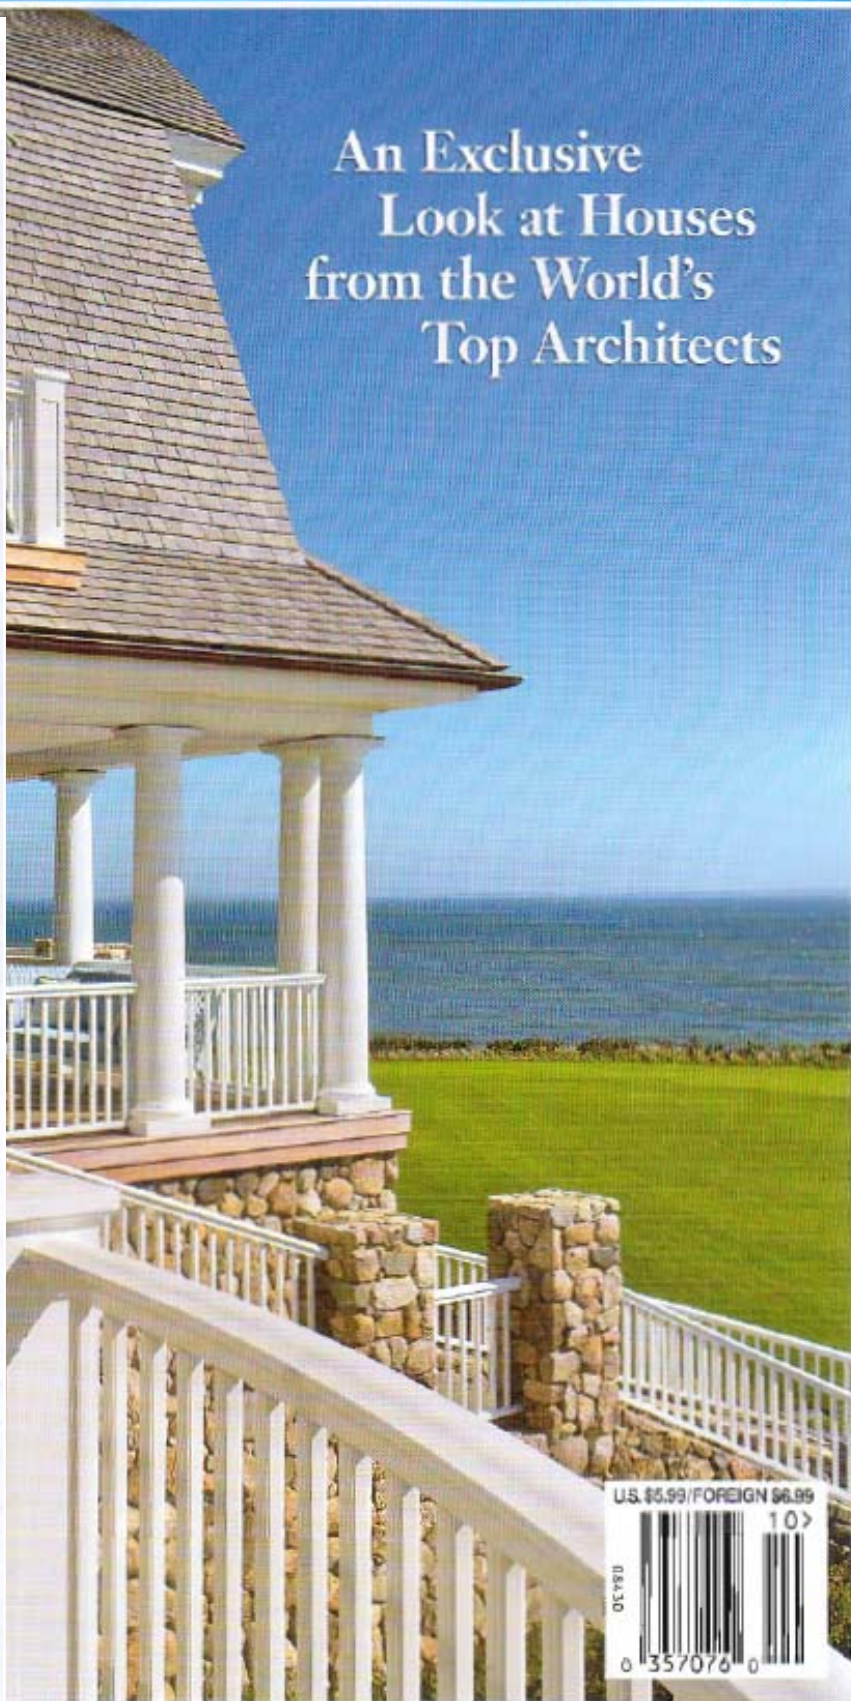

A New Marrakech Villa Inspired by the Past

In conceiving a 29,000-square-foot residence in the city's medina, American artist Kris Ruhs looked to the finest Moroccan palaces. Vaulted ceilings, picture windows and detailed stonework are a few of the key design elements in the eight-bedroom, 14-bath house. An ambulatory overlooks the indoor pool (above), which is surrounded by columned arches. Among the amenities are a theater, a wine cellar and a billiard/game room.

The rooftop terrace enjoys 360-degree views of the city. $28.2 million.
